

SOGECCLAIR sets up in North America

In the presence of Mr Nicolas Marceau, Quebec's Minister of Finance and the Economy, SOGECCLAIR announced the creation of its new subsidiary in Montreal at the 2013 Paris Air Show Le Bourget.

SOGECCLAIR adds to its Aerospace division's portfolio of sites in France, Germany, Spain, the United Kingdom and Tunisia. The goal is to propose all of the division's skills with the same quality of service in its acknowledged areas of expertise:

- Aerostructures,
- Systems installation,
- Configuration management,
- Equipment,
- Manufacturing engineering.

For Yves Sagot, President of Sogecclair Aerospace Inc.: "Some of SOGECCLAIR's experienced engineers in Europe are very keen to come and settle in Canada. They will be integrated in our teams bringing SOGECCLAIR's know-how and making up for the shortage of qualified labour in this sector. The innovative capabilities of SOGECCLAIR's teams will be able to express themselves to the full thanks to the effort being made by Quebec in the area of research. Montreal is also a gateway to the United States, which is interesting with a view to developing our markets with major companies in North America."

For Philippe Robardey, President & CEO of SOGECCLAIR: "Canada, and more particularly Quebec, has a wealth of prestigious companies to which SOGECCLAIR wants to provide its engineering services. Our Montreal-based subsidiary will allow us to listen to them directly and adapt our offer to meet their expectations: placing experts at their disposal, carrying out complete studies with a commitment to results, or designing and manufacturing structural subassemblies."
